

CELEBRATING MULTICULTURAL NIGHT

LHE celebrated Multicultural Night on Feb 12. Students, teachers and families shared food and information from the many cultures we represent in our school. Thank you to the families for their generosity in sharing with our community. And thank you to our guest performers: the Muckleshoot Tribe and Morning Star Korean Cultural Group.

LEADERSHIP CORNER FROM ACTING PRINCIPAL BERKENWALD

Dear Loyal Heights Community,

I want to thank you as individuals and as a PTA for welcoming me to this wonderful community. As we approach the budget season and the annual auction, I can't help but make the connection with how passionate and dedicated community members are to Loyal Heights. This includes supporting your children at home, volunteering at school, and through fundraising. The theme of community was a common sentiment raised at the recent kindergarten and new family tours. I received overwhelmingly positive feedback indicating families are excited to begin next fall. This included many families trying to choice into our school. While our numbers are capped, with priority reserved for those living in our zone, this desire to enroll is indicative of the wonderful programming our school has to offer.

On January 22, the Discipline Committee introduced the new discipline plan to our staff for review/feedback. The plan was then introduced to students in grade-specific Hallway Huddles. This is when grade levels gather with the administration, teachers, and staff to address concerns, new efforts, or celebrations. Highlights include having students define "Discipline" as to teach (discipline) and learn (disciple), and "Reflection", which means to look at yourself and your role in an incident including cause/action/impact/etc. I informed every grade that while the administration takes discipline seriously and that actions have consequences, we are committed to helping students learn from their mistakes. Our discipline plan connects with the PBIS S.T.A.R. (Safe, Thoughtful, Accountable, Respectful) attributes and the Mood Meter, and uses a restorative approach. The plan includes the following:

- ◆ Step 1: This is handled and decided by teacher or staff monitor in various spaces around school.
- ◆ Step 2: A "S.T.A.R. Blueprint Reflection Sheet" that is age appropriate based on grade. This form will come home to parents and include a student reflection on one side, and teacher/parent details on the back side.
- ◆ Step 3: Referral to the administration. At the minimum, myself or Ms. Sanchez will speak with students and contact parents.

As of February 10, we have gone live with our new plan with the new philosophy:

"Loyal Heights believes in a discipline philosophy that is clear and predictable and plans to resolve and change unexpected behaviors. Our approach is a just, equitable, and empathetic learning experience."

We recently had an assembly led by Taproot Theatre, which put on a show about bullying—reinforcing themes we covered. I would like to highlight a few lessons and ask that you reinforce these messages at home:

- ◆ Bullying is defined as "Unwanted," "Repeated," "Targeted towards a group or individual," and "Shows a real or perceived imbalance in power."
- ◆ Follow the 3 Rs: "Recognize, Refuse, Report."
- ◆ Know the difference between "Reporting" and "Tattling." Reporting is an attempt to get help and tattling is done for the purpose of getting someone in trouble.

There are many efforts taking place at school and a lot of upcoming community-based events we would love for you to attend. Thank you for reading this message and if you ever have any questions or wish to meet with myself or any staff member, do not hesitate to contact the school.

Sincerely,
Michael Berkenwald

AUCTION ANNOUNCEMENTS

Business Sponsorship

This is a great tax-deductible way to advertise your business to the 1,000+ LHE parents, teachers, and students who live in and around Ballard. Sponsorship opportunities are here: lhes.ejoinme.org/sponsorship. Interested? Email procurement@loyalheightspta.org

Raffle Tickets

$2 Raffle Tickets are coming home so get your kiddos excited to sell! This is an exciting way for students to support their school. Stay tuned for more details about weekly prizes that will be awarded to the top sellers. Attendance at the auction is not necessary to win the $1,000 prize.

Event Volunteers Needed

It takes an army of volunteers to pull off this fundraiser. We need lots of hands the day of the big event and the day before. The easiest way to get involved is with our Auction Volunteer Signup Genius that's coming soon.

You can also email our Volunteer Coordinator, Melissa Fuller at melissapfuller@gmail.com

Dick's and MOD Lunches: Parent Sponsors Needed

Dick's Lunch and MOD Pizza Lunch are back! If there's a reason to get to the auction early, this might be it! In the silent auction, we sell a Dick's lunch for 20 spots per grade: your child gets a Dick's hamburger, fries, and shake delivered on a designated day. Kids go nuts for it and parents get to skip packing a lunch! The MOD Pizza Lunch is similar and is sold during the online auction.

How it works: generous parent donors help coordinate and pay for each grade. Many grades have more than one parent to share costs. This is a big money maker for our school since the money goes straight to the school. The parent sponsors schedule the day of the lunch delivery (with front office approval), pick up the lunches, and distribute to the students during lunch. We're still looking for a few more sponsors for these two special items. If you are interested in helping, please email us at: procurement@loyalheightspta.org

AUCTION RAVES

RAVE to the auction procurement team who kicked butt getting amazing items donated: Andrea Bernarding, Missie Smith, Beth Gardner, Christie Gersack, Stephanie Gardner, Sara Adelman, Kajsa Puckett, Jessie Hammer, Melissa Murray, Jennifer Lund, Katrina Hupp, Mikelle Erikson, Alison McCabe, Brendan Power, and Stephanie Jones.

RAVE to the awesome auction volunteers making it happen!

BLACK LIVES MATTER AT SCHOOL WEEK AND BLACK HISTORY MONTH

From Feb 3-7, LHE students engaged with Black Lives Matter at School by discussing two of the BLM 13 principles, empathy and diversity. Students read books like The Colors of Us by Karen Katz and Let's Talk About Race by Julius Lester to help them thoughtfully consider their own racial identities. Students of all grades are learning about a variety of African American leaders and innovators this month. In art class, 4th graders made inclusion signs to hang on doors and 5th graders used symbols to illustrate BLM principles such as: loving engagement, empathy, diversity, and restorative justice.

In honor of the BLM at School Week of Action and Black History Month, the PTA Equity Group invites you to take a little time to complete a daily challenge. Some challenges will be geared towards adults, while others you can do with your kids. We hope this will give you a chance to engage with your child in the ideas and conversations LHE students are having.

Day 1: Implicit Bias. Watch The New York Times 2-minute video Peanut Butter, Jelly and Racism then take the Harvard Implicit Bias Test to learn about your own biases (select the “Race IAT” after clicking link).

Day 2: Read a Book With Your Child. Check out and read one of these books compiled by The Seattle Public Library with your children (seattle.bibliocommons.com/list/share/95587331_janamartz/1571698499_blm). Don't have time to go to the library? Check out an ebook online.

Day 3: Listen to a Podcast. Listen to The New York Times audio series 1619's How the Bad Blood Started. Learn how Black Americans were denied access to doctors and hospitals for decades.

Day 4: Visit the NW African American Museum (2300 S. Massachusetts St). From NAAM's website (naamnw.org): “At the heart of the African American experience in the Northwest is the story of our journey to this region, the establishment of our vibrant community, and the ways in which we have survived. To tell this ever-unfolding story, the Museum's exhibitions and programs feature the visual arts, music, crafts, literature and history of African Americans in the Northwest.”

Day 5: Watch a Movie. Watch The Last Black Man in San Francisco (rated R). Jimmie Fails dreams of reclaiming the Victorian home his grandfather built in the heart of San Francisco. Joined on his quest by his best friend Mont, Jimmie searches for belonging in a rapidly changing city that seems to have left them behind.

MULTICULTURAL FAMILIES GROUP EVENT

Please join LHE in hosting Ballard High School representatives of the Asian, Black, and Latinx student unions. They will come and share their experiences attending predominantly white elementary schools, with demographics similar demographics to LHE. The students will also share what they're doing as part of their student unions to help all students feel more comfortable engaging in conversations about race and equity, and to ensure everyone's voice at Ballard High is heard. This should be a fun night for both groups of students to learn from one another. Pizza will be served and all students are welcome!

Wed, March 18 at 6 pm in the LHE Commons. RSVP to bmrider@seattleschools.org

STUDENT WRITING SHOWCASE: LEARNING ABOUT CIVIL RIGHTS

I was riding home in the back of the bus home from school and a woman got on. There was nothing extraordinary about her except the fact she looked tired. She sat down next to me and I soon heard her name was Rosa Parks. She rode a few blocks and then a man got on and because the front half was full he asked Rosa to get up. She ignored him so he asked again. She refused. He calmly walked up to the front of the bus and told the bus driver. When the police came a police officer walked up to Rosa and put her handcuffs on her and walked away. I ran home and cried for the injustice of African Americans.

Black Lives Matter

There are lots of different kinds of people and one way that we're different is the color of our skin. It's important to make sure that all people are treated fairly, and that's why we, and lots of other people all over the country and the world are part of the Black Lives Matter movement.

The Voting Rights Act

The Voting Rights Act is a law that Lyndon B. Johnson signed to make it a law in 1965. It made African Americans able to vote. Even though the law was passed some southern states and cities still didn't allow them to vote. In 1964 only 6% of African Americans were allowed to vote. But in 1969 59% were allowed to vote. At the signing MLK Jr. and other civil rights leaders were present!

EARTH CORNER BY GUEST EDITOR BETSY SWART... KEEP LHE BEAUTIFUL!

An anti-littering TV campaign in the 1970's called Keep America Beautiful showed a Native American in tribal dress overlooking a polluted landscape. The camera zoomed in on a tear running down his cheek. 50 years later, a mournful man is a fitting metaphor for Planet Earth. There are many ways our environment is at risk, and pollution is still one of them. Our little spot of the planet at LHE sees its share of litter.

Mr. Bin picks up what he can. Other adults I know (Jean, Emily, Dot, Eric, perhaps you!) do it too. There's a kindergarten who loves to locate strings and plastic bits. It truly takes a village to keep the LHE schoolyard clean since litter collecting is an ongoing effort. Kids on the play structure lose their hairbands and ponytail holders throughout the year. Band-Aids detach and flutter to the ground unnoticed. And after every class party comes 400+ backpacks bursting with candy wrappers and lollipop sticks that can squeeze out in an excited lurch toward the playground or get caught by the wind (because we know kids aren't littering on purpose, right?).

Whether adult or a child, you can be a role model litter-buster. Put trash in the garbage or pack it out, and urge others to do the same. Pick up trash on your way to school (and elsewhere!). Of course, kids should always have an adult pick up sharp items like needles or glass. I can happily report that I have not found any sharps or related hazards in my litter-busting at LHE.

Think how much we could achieve if everyone in the LHE community picked up litter routinely. It would move us a long way toward modeling eco-thoughtful habits and keeping America beautiful.

P.S. This is my family's last year at LHE, so I ask you to continue to be a litter-buster next year too!

PERSONAL NARRATIVES FROM MRS. MORRELL'S 3RD GRADE CLASS

Camping by Clara

"Pack you bages. Were going camping" my Dad saide as I walked down stairs for breakfast. As soon as I herd that I dashed down the stairs. "But I thoute camping was not for a whole other week." But I remembered that week we where staying at my grandma's house. So then I shrugged. I went back up to my room to pack my bages. When I was done I hered my dad calling me to come. So then I dashed outside to the car. When we started to move I rolled down the window and felt the cold air brush across my face. When we got there I helped my dad set up the tent. When we were on the last post the whole thing fell down right right on me. But then we tried again that time we got the tent up. Then in the afternoon we went on a hike. When we got back it was getting dark. So we decided to make a fire and roast marshmallows. Then it was time for bed. I layed in my sleeping bag thinking about my brother and sister where doing right now and then I fell into a deep sleep. In the morning I awok to the comforting smell of eggs and bacon. Then I got dressed for breakfast. After breakfast we went down to the river to wash dishes. After that I waited a whole hour for my bff Aliana to get here. She finny got here. I was so exided as soon as she was out of her ca. I ran strait down to the lake to go kiaking. When we were on the kiack and hit the raging raped's I feel off the boat and into the lake. I was laufing so hard I could cry. I had a great time camping. The end.

Hawii by Luke

One day my Mom and Dad woke me up early. We where going to Hawaii, for 10 full days and 2 travel days. Then once I had got out of bed and got dressed we went to wake my sister up. Once we had all gotten ready, we piled into the car. We where on our way. Once we all got to the airport, my dad parked the car, and we waited for him. Once he was back we started to look for some of my grandparents (my Grandma Paggy, Grandma Sharon and Granddpa Paw). First we called my Grandma Peggy. She told us where she was. We soon found her. She gave us books. One for me, one for my sister and one for my brother. Then we saw our other grandparents. We ran over to meet them. After that we weighed our baggage (gosh it was heavy), went through security (I HATE security), and did that stuff. When we got to the waiting area, we all went to the bathroom and then came back and went to the gift shop. Unfortunly we came back empty handed. We waited for a while. I saw a really nice dog but there was really nothing to do. Then we got on the plane. I looked at the book with my Grandma Peggy. (We both love dogs.) I read books, talked, and wached tv. I also played lairs poker with my dad, mom, grandpa Paul, and grandma Peggy. It was very fun. When it was time to land, I felt a sharp pain coming from my ear. I told my perents I wish I had never been born! When we landed we got of the plane and I inhaled the warm humid air of HAWII!
